Bathroom available for drivers. Nice staff members, but a pretty small building with some displays about Cutco. I didn’t see any factory tours offered and the factory is right behind the visitors center. I love Cutco, but a little disappointing!There for a Christmas gift. It was in stock and we were happy. Small place, but am sure they wanted it that way. Get more reviews In order to meet high demand, president of W.R. Case & Sons John O’Kain launched an innovative joint venture with aluminum giant ALCOA in 1949, creating Alcas Cutlery Company - “Al” for ALCOA and “cas” for Case. Based in Olean, the new company served as the “cutlery company for cutlery companies” – manufacturing mostly fixed-blade knives for multiple entities, W.R. Case & Sons’ competitors included. Adrift by the 1980s, Alcas employee Erick Laine bought the company, renamed it Cutco Manufacturing, and used innovative sales channels (most notably its Vector Marketing branch enlisting college students to sell to family and friends) to realize explosive growth. KA-BAR would join the Cutco family in 1996. Renowned for lifetime resharpener and some of the finest household cutlery in the world, Cutco is a major employer in Cattaraugus County and located at 1116 East State Street, Olean, NY. www.cutco.com Information provided by Brad Lockwood and Dean E. That story unfolds in detail as you tour the Cutco/Ka-Bar Visitors Center. You'll find out about the dedicated people who created the unique products, learn about their ingenious solutions and discover how this company and its products have improved people's lives for more than 50 years. Follow the development of Alcas, the parent company of Cutco and Ka-Bar from its creation in 1948 as a joint venture between aluminum giant Alcoa and W.R. Case & Sons Cutlery Company. Olean was chosen for the first Alcas plant because of its proximity to the Case operation in Bradford, PA, as well as the many skilled cutlery who lived in the area - and it has remained a valuable member of this community ever since. Discover how the unique Wedge-Lock handle was developed by industrial designer Thomas Lamb, a pioneer in ergonomic design whose life work was studying how human hands manipulate objects. He spent more than six years of research developing his acclaimed Lamb Wedge-Lock handle - and in 1952 it became a hallmark of Cutco products for their knives.
