next to them. When you enter a Pyramid, you will fall to your death. At the bottom of this chamber is a pressure plate, stand on this and the entire room, as well as the loot will explode. Therefor, its recommended that you dig around the outside of the chamber, creating a staircase as you go down. You can remove the pressure plate with a Picaxe, it wont activate. Collect loot from the four chests, and also dig up the floor to collect all of the TNT. The loot that you will typically find in Minecrafts Desert Temples are Bones, Gunpowder, String, Enchanted Books, Saddles, Ingots, Emeralds and Diamonds. Below, weve put together some unique seeds for Desert Pyramids and Temples in Minecraft. If you like this article, you might want to check out our collection of other Minecraft 1.14, due to terrain generation changes.5: Pyramid OutpostSeed: 456862464780572133 (-140, 300) Our first seed will spawn you relatively close to a Desert Pyramid. This one is very dangerous to explore though as you have more to worry about than just TNT Traps. As you can see, there is a Pillager Outpost actually growing from the Pyramid, so the entire thing is swarming with Illagers who you will have to kill before you can get inside. Seed: 7528983853924970439 (-450, -250) There isnt much around this Temple except the river. However it is close to the spawn, at only a couple of hundred blocks away. Due to it being on the edge of the desert, there are plains and forests nearby where you can set-up a base after looting the Pyramid.Seed: -1831741258276115094 (-515, -150) Heres another Desert Temple that isnt too far from the spawn point. Again, it borders a river with a Savannah area nearby, meaning you have a great place to set up base, gather wood and look for villages. Seed: 79942115385233205 (1300, 560) Using this seed will give you another Desert Temple that has buildings growing out of it. This one though is village buildings, and one of them actually gives it a unique looking entrance. Only problem with this seed is that this location is actually a few hundred blocks away and not near the spawn. Seed: -719325015 (130, 95) Finally, we have another Minecraft Seed which has a Desert Pyramid inside of a Village. However with this one, the Pyramid is separate and doesnt have buildings inside of it. This area isnt too far from spawn, but you will have to do a little bit of running. This seed is great for expanding the village, or setting up your own base here. Minecraft continues to introduce new structures, but players shouldn't overlook the older additions. Such is the case with desert temples for more goodies. Although deserts have gotten a little lost in Minecraft's expanding world generation, they still offer plenty of rewards for players who seek them out. To that end, there are more than a few world seeds that provide fans with the ability to access desert temples in a relatively easy fashion, and it doesn't hurt to examine a few of them. Note: This list is subjective and solely reflects the opinions of the writer 10 great Minecraft seeds for finding desert temples (Image via Skyphii/Reddit) Minecraft players will start this Java Edition seed adjacent to a desert village with a ruined mineshaft running underneath it at roughly (X: 200 Z: 296).
Once they've established themselves, they can head to (X: 328 Z: 328) to find the nearest desert temple with nearby azalea trees worth checking out. Since these trees mark the location of lush caves, players may want to bring a pickaxe and shovel. As an added bonus, fans can check out the coordinates (X: 376 Z: 312) to find a ruined Nether portal near the pyramid for some extra loot. 2) The Cave Temple (1031155834, Bedrock) This seed offers an interesting spawning location for a desert temple in Minecraft, but players will have to do some work to get to it. A pyramid lies at (X: -442 Y: 68 Z:-5898), which is quite far from the spawn point with regard to the Z-axis. Be that as it may, the structure is housed in a partially exposed cave system. There are also gold and coal ores worth mining. Though traveling far for a desert temple may seem a bit unnecessary, this one's location might make for an interesting base build if players are up to it. 3) The Mishmash (-4819466340285857644, Bedrock)This Minecraft seed's desert temple has some company (Image via Fragrant Result 186/Reddit)It's one thing to find a desert temple in Minecraft, but another to find it joined with additional structures in extremely close proximity. If players like their structures in clusters, this may be the seed for them. At approximately (X: 95 Z: 152), players will find a desert pyramid flush against a woodland mansion, which also has a desert village flanking it. Oddly enough, all three structures are resting in a body of water, which may make accessing the temple a little trickier than usual. Fortunately, players can always enter from the top if they need to and simply negate their fall damage with a water bucket or a slime/honey block. 4) Desert Paradise (1538100941941621286737640, Bedrock)This cozy desert locale is quite close to Minecraft players' spawn area in this seed (Image via Lucky 719/Reddit)Although Minecraft fans will start this Bedrock Edition seed in a jungle biome, they can head to (X: 840 Z: 248) to find a combined desert temple and village area. The temple is particularly difficult task. Even better, on the way to the area, players will also find a ruined portal at (X: 328 Z: 56), a jungle temple at (X: 168 Z: 344), and a set of trail ruins at (X: 184 Z: 184) for a few extra item pickups. 5) The Village Temple (-4327904694146500881, Java)Desert temples don't get much closer to village, they won't get much closer than what this seed provides At (X: -192 Z: 304), players will find a pyramid directly on the outskirts of a desert village that is simply waiting to be explored. Moreover, there are other structures to enjoy, as a village/shipwreck combo can be found at approximately (X: -104 Z: -232). 6) The Four Pyramids (7290596365611554596, Java) Four separate desert temples lie in reach for Minecraft fans in this seed (Image via Mojang)On top of having access to an above-ground mineshaft right at the spawn point, Minecraft players can find four desert temples within walking distance in this seed. A ruined portal also rests at (X: 24 Z: 72) for some quick loot. Additionally, fans can head to (X: 72 Z: 232), (X: -216 Z: 264), (X: -136 Z: -136) and (X: 88 Z: -296) to find desert temples for their loot and archeological needs. Players can also find a nearby pillager outpost at (X: 224 Z: -288) and a desert temple (Image via Doctorlector44/Reddit)Though Minecraft fans won't find much at this seed's spawn point, minus an abandoned mineshaft or two underground, things change when players head to (X: 332 Z: 138), where a desert temple rests alongside a village. One can also find a desert well in the vicinity, which should be useful for finding pottery sherds via archeology by brushing the suspicious sand within it. A ruined portal also rests near (X: 360 Z: 136) if players want to head to the Nether or just loot a few decent items from its loot chest. 8) The Lonely Temple (-9164165905791567801, Bedrock) This desert temple seems quite isolated in this Minecraft seed (Image via Fragrant Result_186/Reddit)Minecraft fans won't find a ton of items to plunder from this lone desert temple at spawn, but it does present other opportunities. It's relatively isolated and doesn't have much clutter around it when it comes to blocks, so one could reshape this temple at spawn, but it does present other opportunities. However, players may want to use caution if they decide to dig beneath it due to the ocean surrounding the temple. 9) Temple of Pillaging (6658650853035838587, Java)Minecraft's pillager mobs got a bit creative in this seed (Image via ThatGuyOnReddit17/Reddit)Pillagers may not have their own dedicated temples in Minecraft, but that didn't stop them from making one of their own in this seed. Players will have to head to (X: 4860 Z: 530) to get to it, so using a teleport command or similar function is advisable if at all possible. Regardless, when players reach the coordinates, they'll find a pillager outpost dropped right in the center of a desert temple. Once players clear out the nearby pillagers, this spot might make for a nice base of operations. It's far away from the spawn point, to be sure, but some might not mind so much since it saves them time collecting resources and building. 10) Ancient Waters (4256538155150362998, Bedrock)Two desert temples in Minecraft's oceans are quite a rare occurrence (Image via Fragrant Result 186/Reddit). found at (X: -152 Z: 56) and (X: 8 Z: 8), but there are also a few more worth checking out. Specifically, fans can find a ruined portal at (X: 40 Z: 120) and (X: 8 Z: 104) for some extra lootable goodies. About the author Quick LinksEdited by Rachel Syiemlieh The desert biome may lack resources, but its one of the most unique landscapes in Minecraft, featuring desert temples full of loot. Youll spawn on a desert island with one regular village, one zombie village, and a pillager outpost. All of these are located in their respective corners of the island, which makes up for an excellent multiplayer challenge map with zombies and pillagers. Just be sure to load the map at night, or the zombies will burn to ashes under the sunlight. Screenshot by GameSkinny Spawn: -4330868945138582511 Biomes: Desert, Savanna There are also safe options with three villages at spawn that offer no danger of being Spawn: X: 16 Z: -48 Biomes: Desert, Savanna Spawn on the border of two biomes that accommodate two villages. If you play the seed in Minecraft 1.21, then I urge you to explore the badlands area to the south, as thats where youll find the entrance into the trial chamber at coordinates X: 9 Y: -23 Z: 249. Here, youll also find a lava pool for easy obsidian block farming and eventual teleportation into the nether. Screenshot by GameSkinny Spawn: X: 0 Z: 0 Biomes: Desert, Jungle Its not always easy to find resources in the desert biome, but in this seed, you get a jungle temple right at spawn. This will make your survival game so much easier, especially if you also check out the small ravine nearby. To the south of spawn, I also found a plains village at coordinates X: -160 Z: 400, which should be of great interest to all survival enthusiasts. Screenshot by GameSkinny Spawn: X: 0 Z: -32 Biomes: Desert, Ocean Its always nice to spawn on the warm ocean shore; as you know, theres always going to be a patch of coral reefs. Since the village at coordinates X: -160 Z: 400, which should be of great interest to all survival enthusiasts.
at spawn is rather small, you can use corals to build better and bigger huts using decorative blocks from the ocean. On top of that, theres a massive ocean monument nearby at coordinates X: 152 Z: 104, which is packed with gold blocks. Screenshot by GameSkinny Spawn: X: 0 Z: 32 Biomes: Desert The desert village at spawn has a weaponsmith for a reason! If you look around, youll see a pillager outpost on top of the hill behind the village, overlooking the area. Be sure to quickly craft weapons and destroy the outpost. After that, you can enjoy this wonderful seed with the mangrove swamp biome and another village at coordinates X: -352 Z: 112. Screenshot by GameSkinny Spawn: X: 0 Z: -32 Biomes: Desert The only sources of loot in the desert temple at spawn in the village, but also another one right behind it at coordinates X: 72 Z: -184. Together, I was able to collect eight full treasure chests of loot, which turned out to be great. Just be careful not to trigger the trap under the chests. Screenshot by GameSkinny Spawn: X: 0 Z: 32 Biomes: Desert, Jungle biomes. A little further to the north, you should find a pillager outpost at coordinates X: 128 Z: -192. I also found three jungle temples in the vicinity at coordinates X: -296 Z: -408, X: -344 Z: 312, and X: -344 Z: 312, and X: -408 Z: 792. Be sure to check them all out for lots and lots of free loot. Screenshot by GameSkinny Spawn: X: 16 Z: 0 Biomes: Desert, Jungle The easiest way to get loot in the desert is to raid a desert temple, which appears right at spawn near a village. If you take a short stroll to the west, youll also find another pair of a village and a desert temple at coordinates X: -808 Z: 88. On your way there, be sure to check out a jungle temple at coordinates X: -456 Z: 168. With all the loot you get and the jungle nearby, survival will be a breeze. Screenshot by GameSkinny Spawn: X: 48 Z: 0 Biomes: Desert, Jungle If you dont want to move too much to get loot, then heres a desert village and a jungle temple at spawn. More than that, I found trail ruins right under the village at coordinates X: -3 Y: 68 Z: 115, and if you play in the 1.21 update of Minecraft, then youll also see a trial chamber under the trail ruins at coordinates X: 119 Y: -25 Z: 89. Thats four structures all in one spot! Screenshot by GameSkinny Spawn: X: 0 Z: 0 Biomes: Desert, Ocean Underwater structures rarely spawn too close to other surface-level structures, but heres one of those rare moments when an ocean monument appears right next to a desert village at spawn. Since I spawned on the ocean shore, I was hoping to find a buried treasure here, and I did eventually at coordinates X: -327 Z: -343. So be sure to loot it right away before venturing into the ocean monument. Screenshot by GameSkinny Spawn: X: 0 Z: 0 Biomes: Desert, Savanna Theres always a chance to spawn next to an abandoned zombie village, but if theres a regular village nearby, then the iron golem should protect you. Thats exactly the case in this seed, where the desert village turns out to be more valuable than the acacia one. But I also managed to spot a good acacia village a bit to the south at coordinates X: -208 Z: 592. Screenshot by GameSkinny Spawn: X: 0 Z: 0 Biomes: Desert, Savanna I spawned in the desert village with a half-buried desert temple in the sand dunes. Then, I noticed an acacia village nearby at coordinates X: 16 Z: -192. But I kept moving to the north, and I discovered a woodland mansion standing next to a jungle temple at coordinates X: 16 Z: -472. This is by far one of the luckiest desert Minecraft seeds Ive ever encountered. Screenshot by GameSkinny Spawn: X: -32 Z: 0 Biomes: Desert, Jungle, Mangrove Swamp This desert Minecraft seed will spawn you in the village with a weaponsmith and a jungle temple that stands unusually close to the settlement. At coordinates X: -176 Z: -256, I found another village with a desert temple, which contains twice as much loot as the jungle temple at spawn. If you build a boat, youll be able to reach a mushroom island to the east at coordinates X: 864 Z: 132. Screenshot by GameSkinny Spawn: X: 16 Z: -16 Biomes: Desert, Ocean, Jungle Desert islands are hardly suitable for survival, but if you get both a village and some trees, then it gets so much easier. In this Minecraft seed, you also get a top-tier shipwreck near spawn at coordinates X: -152 Z: 104, which contains at least three treasure chests full of loot. Lastly, the closest ocean monument that I could find is located at coordinates X: 296 Z: 72, which is surrounded by a huge patch of coral reefs. Screenshot by GameSkinny Spawn: X: 0 Z: 0 Biomes: Desert Ravines often appear all over the desert biome, but this is the first time Ive seen a huge ravine appear under the river at coordinates X: 312 Z: -360. There, youll also find a desert temple and a village. This creates a much safer way of exploring the ravine and explore the ravine thoroughly. Screenshot by GameSkinny Spawn: X: 0 Z: 48 Biomes: Desert, Savanna. Spawn on an island that is 50% savanna and 50% desert. The latter biome also has a village, and there are also some trail ruins underneath at coordinates X: -354 Y: 68 Z: 398. This should be more than enough to start your survival game on a strong footing! Screenshot by GameSkinny Spawn: X: 50 Z: 50 Biomes: Desert, Jungle. Raiding a temple is a tremendous opportunity, but getting two or even three temples at spawn is a jackpot. At coordinates X: 100 Z: 150, theres a desert temple with a village, and at coordinates X: 350 Z: 50, theres another temple with an exposed ruined portal. Screenshot by GameSkinny Spawn: X: 50 Z: 50 Biomes: Desert. Underground structures, like zombie dungeons, hardly ever spawn on the surface. One such uncovered dungeon can be seen directly beneath the desert village at coordinates X: 550 Z: 150.
Its a mob farming facility as well as a quick loot source. Screenshot by GameSkinny Spawn: X: 50 Z: -50 Biomes: Various. This seed will be a great help if you want a wide range of biomes with unique village layouts and bare terrain. I found an exposed shipwreck here and lush caves that open out next to the village at coordinates X: 150 Z: 50. The remaining topography is made up of several biomes, such as badlands, forests, jungles, and deserts. Screenshot by GameSkinny Spawn: X: 50 Z: 50 Biomes: Desert, Ocean There are three islands in this seed, and youll spawn on one of them. Each island has a village. The first one also features a pillager outpost and a desert temple. The second one is located at coordinates X: -450 Z: -200, and the third one is visible at coordinates X: 650 Z: 650. Screenshot by GameSkinny Spawn: X: 50 Z: 50 Biomes: Mangrove Swamp, Desert This seed makes the tiny village at spawn look like an island in a green sea, but its actually a small patch of desert biome lost in the middle of the giant mangrove swamp. It will take you an entire 500 blocks before you reach any of the edges of this massive biome. So build yourself a sturdy boat and travel on! Screenshot by GameSkinny Spawn: X: 50 Z: -50 Biomes: Mangrove island surrounded by coral reefs at spawn. Note that this is a truly isolated spawn, and theres nothing except salty water for many hundreds of blocks. The closest village on the mainland can be seen at coordinates X: -750 Z: -800. Screenshot by GameSkinny Spawn: X: 50 Z: -50 Biomes: Badlands, Desert Arguably, the hardest biome to survive in is the badlands, but add a desert biome to the mix, and the stakes quickly rise. But you can ease your gameplay by traveling to coordinates X: 300 Z: -750, where youll find a village on the border of badlands and desert. Itll give you some solid support, for sure. Screenshot by GameSkinny Spawn: X: -150 Z: 250 Biomes: Desert, Ocean Although its always possible to spawn in the middle of the ocean, its considerably harder to spawn on an island. Here, you spawn next to a desert island village at coordinates X: 150 Z: 250 that has a surface shipwreck stuck amidst the huts. But were not complaining, as additional loot is always welcome. Screenshot by GameSkinny Spawn: X: 150 Z: 300 Biomes: Various This is the ideal survival seed, as it spawns you close to a village surrounded by a diverse range of biomes, such as plains, jungles, deserts, badlands, and forests. I also found an ancient city at coordinates X: 200 Z: 50 Biomes: Desert Spawn on the lakeshore in the middle of a desert with a zombie village stuck there. The lake is pretty deep, and theres also a normal village nearby at coordinates X: 50 Z: -250. If you need loot, travel eastwards to coordinates X: 50 Z: -250. If you need loot, travel eastwards to coordinates X: 350 Z: -300 for a nice desert temple.

The archaeological features have finally found their way to the world of Minecraft. However, most of the new items and blocks are hidden far away in the sand of the game. We are here to blow some of it away with some of the best archaeology seeds for Minecraft. From hidden temples to lucky spawn, we have something for everyone. So, without wasting any more of your excavation time, lets dive in! Opening with a jackpot, we have a perfect seed for speedrunning for archaeologists as well as regular players. It generates a large desert village which a bunch of villagers with jobs, including an ironsmith. So, you get almost all your resources to visit the Nether (where you will find the netherite upgrade template) in no time. But before you do that, there is a Desert Pyramid right behind the ironsmiths hut, which is definitely worth exploring. As you might already know, the suspicious sand inside the temple can not only lead you to rare pottery shards but even items like diamonds and emeralds. Though, if luck isnt by your side, the nearby desert wells are there to give you another try. Seed: 7800560586692033726 Edition: Bedrock Coordinates: 660, 63, 176 The idea of mysterious ancient items and excavations sounds profound and exciting. But, except for long journeys, the archaeological quests dont really involve any serious risk. This seed tries to change that by spawning a Desert Pyramid right under the nose of a Pillager Outpost.
So, you don't only have to carefully dust the suspicious sand blocks but also avoid Pillagers while doing so. Even though this situation might sound like an invitation to death in the early part of the game, its a great way for you to collect two armor trims in one spot. Along with the archaeological features in Minecraft, these trims are a brand-new addition to the game pushing it towards a new level of creativity. Seed: 7036873027319092 Edition: Bedrock Coordinates: -697, 71, -815 At this point, most of you already know how to find suspicious sand in Minecraft, so the mystery element of this new block is already fading away. But that doesn't mean you can unlock a little excavation hunt on your own. This seed spawns a buried Desert Temple, which is impossible to find unless you are looking at it from a particular angle. With that, the only thing left to discover is how quickly can you unfold the mystery of this ancient structure and get some amazing loot. Not to forget, the nearby badlands mountain can provide you with a bunch of gold and even copper, which you need to easily make a brush in Minecraft, the beginning point for all the archaeology adventures. Seed: 19816 Edition: Java Coordinates: -953, 76, 120Analysis via Seed Map Desert Temples are clearly the winners when it comes to archaeological loot of Minecraft. Still, even if you want to make a single decorated pot, you have to travel to a bunch of them before getting enough pottery shards. This Minecraft seed tries to fix that by generating three Desert Temples close to your spawn point. Having three temples ensures that you can get at least 6 suspicious sand blocks. But if even this many archaeological blocks arent enough, the desert wells that spawn in your route to the temple are there to back you up. Seed: 2183 Edition: Java 1st Desert Temple Coordinates: 280, 66, 104 While there are a bunch of great archaeology desert seeds for Minecraft in our list, a lot of them involve long travels or a lack of non-temple structures. But this seed is different. It provides you with everything you need right at your spawn point, including a desert village that has a Desert Temple and even a bunch of cave openings. Though, if the temple as a spawn doesnt fit your needs, you can also visit a nearby desert well and a second Desert Temple, which is visible from the village itself. Moreover, if you keep the nearby water sources and lava pools in mind, this seed is also perfect for speedrunning in Minecraft even if that wasnt your main adventure. Seed: 47179726794 Edition: Java Desert Temple Coordinates: 8, 67, 40 Desert Well Near Second Temple Coordinates: 236, 63, -119 When it comes to forgotten or abandoned history, our list of Minecraft archaeology seeds cant be complete without including zombie villages. These are structures similar to regular villages but they don't have anyone carring for or living in them. Instead, these villages have broken huts, cobwebs, dark corners, and a bunch of undead mobs. Sounds spooky, right? Well, thats why most beginners avoid visiting them. But the zombie village in this seed is right next to your spawn point and also has a Desert Temple in it. So, it would be a waste of resources if you avoid exploring either of these structures. Moreover, since there are no reliable biomes nearby, there is no alternative to looting if you plan on surviving. Who knows, the suspicious sand might help you gear up enough to even restore a zombie villager into a villager into a villager that has multiple farms and even an ironsmith in it. Its located in an exposed dripstone cave and a beautiful river. However, thats not all. There is a second large village just a few dozen blocks away with its own benefits including a lava pool. But, what makes the second village truly special is the Desert Temple sitting on the shore of a river nearby. So, you can get the basic resources from the first village, set sail on a Minecraft boat toward the next one, and loot your way to the temple in the end. All of it makes up for a perfect story-filled adventure thats waiting to happen. Seed: 11067183474 Edition: Java Desert Temple Coordinates: -408, 71, 120 Second Village Coordinates: -309, 72, 207 Giving a subtle nod to the storyline of Minecraft Legends, the ruined portals in the overworld are shattered Nether portals that reflect the aftermath of an ancient war. Naturally, they fit quite well with the whole narrative of archaeological sites but the developers are focusing heavily on the desert structures only. However, this seed doesnt play by the rules and spawns a ruined portal merged with a Desert Temple near the spawn. Then, as if this impossible structure wasnt enough, the seed also generates a massive mineshaft beneath your feet. But before looting it, make sure to visit the nearby desert village. Seed: 5069955 Edition: Java Ruined Portal Coordinates: 104, 67, 08 Desert Temple Coordinates: 120, 73, -232 Exploring forgotten structures for artifacts has been a part of video games for a long time and the Tomb Raider series was the leading force behind it. This seed, in a way, replicates the same. It spawns you next to a dense forest on the other side which is a Desert Temple waiting to be excavated. Whether you like to do virtual roleplay or looking for a way to relive the days of Lara Croft, this is the Minecraft archaeology seed for you. Seed: 41649 Edition: Java Desert Temple Coordinates: 120, 82, 88 Keep your eyes open and your sense alert because the reward in this seed is a bit harder to spot. You spawn next to a unique mountainous desert village with sits on the shore of a river. On the other side of the river is a beautiful mangrove swamps biome with a hidden desert temple in it. Seed: 49184 Edition: Java Desert Temple Coordinates: 120, 77, 120 The new archaeology system of Minecraft is bringing players back to the forgotten desert biome of the game. And if you like deserts then this seed is made for you. It throws you next to a Desert Temple located in one of the largest desert areas of all time. There are countless sand blocks all around you. More than youll ever need. But, when it comes to food, this seed is going to give you a hard time. So, make sure you create a fish farm as soon as possible to keep yourself fed. Seed: 135900 Edition: Java To end our list of best Minecraft archaeology seeds, we have a dangerous entry that truly puts your survival skills to the temples entrance, there are at least 5 Pillagers, loaded with crossbows, ready to kill you. Moreover, the area around the outpost is quite open so theres almost no way to hide. But, if you somehow survive this tricky situation, the reward doesnt only include suspicious sand but also a goat horn, sitting on the top floor of the outpost. Seed: 194634185 Edition: Java Now that you know where to find all the new archaeology sites in Minecraft, its time to ride a camel and unearth all the suspicious sand. While you are at it, make sure to put on one of the best Minecraft skins to look the part. Not to forget, you can also take the Sniffer on your adventures.
