The blank string should not be confused with the blank language  $\varnothing$ , which is a formal language (i.e. a string set) that does not contain strings, even the blank string, the empty string has several properties: 0. the length of the rope is zero.  $\epsilon = s = s = \epsilon$ . the empty string is the identity element of the concatenation operation, the set of all strings forms a monoid free from  $\epsilon$  and  $\epsilon R = \epsilon$ . the inversion of the blank string produces the empty string, the empty string precedes any other string under lexicographic order, because it is the shortest of all strings. [2] In contextless grammar, a production rule that allows a symbol to produce the blank form is known as  $\epsilon$ -production, the String Class in programming languages JnignitSSN etnatsoc ottegno Formally, a string is a finite, ordered sequence of characters such as letters, digits or spaces. The empty string is the special case where the sequence has length zero, so there are no symbols in the string. In most programming languages, the empty string is distinct from a null reference (or null pointer) because a null reference points to no string at all, not even the empty string. The empty string is a legitimate string, upon which most string operations should work. Dear Twitpic Community - thank you for all the wonderful photos you have taken over the years.
